2018国际食品接触材料安全风险交流与创新大会
International Food Contact Material Safety Conference 2018

The safety of food contact materials has aroused concerns from all sectors of society. On the one hand, various countries and regions around the world, including Europe, the United States and China, have constantly introduced new regulatory systems and safety assessment methods for food contact materials. On the other hand, the continuously issued environmental protection laws and regulations also put forward new requirements and challenges for the environmental friendliness and sustainable development of food contact materials.

How to avoid risks under increasingly stringent regulatory system?

How to achieve technological innovation under the premise of compliance and effectively enhance cost efficiency?

How to grasp the market trend, hit the market pain points and get buyers' favour?

How can we mobilize positive factors such as government, institutions, enterprises and scientific research to promote the overall development of the industry?

On 11th & 12th September, the 5th International Food Contact Material Safety Conference will be held in Shanghai, China as scheduled. Many experts and industry leaders will come together to answer various questions in the new era, leading the food contact industry into the next golden period of development with an international vision and a forward-looking posture in the industry.

Through this conference, you will get:

- Latest developments and detailed analysis of laws and regulations in Europe, America and other emerging countries
- The authoritative interpretation and landing guidance of the new version of national standard of food contact materials
- First-hand information of China's food contact materials supervision and risk monitoring
- Methods and suggestions for supply chain management and risk control
- Safety and quality requirements of food contact materials users
- The best practice of technological innovation in Enterprises
